SPECIAL EDUCATION AND PRIMARY SCHOOL

This workshop is suitable for staff who are working in primary schools across the three education sectors in South Australia. This includes school and curriculum leaders, classroom teachers, special education coordinators, counsellors, wellbeing coordinators and school assistants. It is an ideal opportunity for a team to attend to enhance the implementation of strategies in the school environment. It is interactive with a practical focus and will include:

- Early warning signs in the primary years
- Specific Learning disorders – dyslexia, dysgraphia and dyscalculia and more
- Related difficulties such as attention, working memory and executive function
- Understanding psychoeducational assessment reports
- Myth-busting and misconceptions
- Current research and practice
- Underlying processing problems- recognising them and what to do about them
- Understanding the impacts on children's emotional wellbeing and resilience
- Practical suggestions and resources to use in the classroom environment.

ABOUT THE PRESENTER

Helen is a Clinical and Educational Psychologist with Learning Keys who offers a range of psychology and speech pathology services for children, adolescents and adults with specific learning difficulties. She has more than 20 years experience working in a variety of Health and Educational settings. Helen also teaches in the Master of Clinical psychology Program at the University of SA. In addition to individual services, Helen played a key role in developing the national education program, MindMatters, to improve mental health outcomes for secondary school students.
